What is the story of Doobert?

Chris Roy is a tech guy in his "day" job and used his experience to create Doobert for animal rescuers. Doobert is like a combination of Match.com for animal shelters and rescues to find new partners and volunteer Uber for getting the animals where they need to go.

Doobert is a social enterprise that is constantly innovating new amazing tools like RescueTUBE and Fosterspace, which is currently the ONLY foster management platform that integrates texting.

Chris is supported by his amazing wife Daphne, and together they have 5 furkids: 4 cats and 1 dog.

Animal Transport

Doobert supports animal transports

Local or Clinic Rides

Local or clinic rides are transports less than 50 miles. They can be one-way or roundtrips. Volunteers are notified via text for faster transportation.

Rescue Relays

By auto-splitting your routes into legs and managing volunteer sign-up, Doobert makes coordinating long-distance transports a breeze.

High-Volume Transports

Doobert makes it easy for you to specify the vehicle capacity you need and gives you the option to share vehicle space with animals from other organizations.
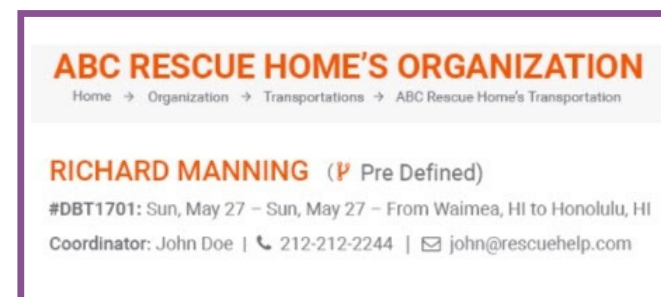

doobert

Doobert automates everything

Each transport has its own sign-up page generated and managed by Doobert.

Organization Branding and Contacts

Your transports have your name and contact information.
